

Whole

I thought of you again today.

Sometimes I skip – forgive me.

Remembering only the good has gotten easy.

I still get angry for forgetting all the bad. I want all of you.

It isn't you I learned to let go.

It is all me. Selfishly me.

Do you know how much of me I had to give away to keep you?